VOTE FOR BEN JOHNSON AND YOU WILL NEVER REGRET CASTING YOUR VOTE FOR HIM.

SOMETHING ABOUT HON. CHAS. A. TOWNE.

He Will Lecture Here Tuesday Night, Nov. 13.

(CONTRIBUTED)

Above all other possessions, a nation's "chief asset is its men; and history is in reality their biography." And this is so in all ages and under all forms of social compact. Glance over the record of the past and you will see that those eras chronicled as great were great only because of the great men who played their part upon the stage of action in that particular place and time. What were your French Revolutions, without your Mirabeaus? Your American Revolutions, without your Washingtons?

And so if this age, and the records of what it does, and says, and thinks, perishes not utterly, 'twill be because there now move among us superb sun kissed men who have convictions and the courage to defend those convictions whatever the consequences.

These generalizations are suggested by thinking of one of the prominent men of the present, Chas. A. Towne, and what he stands for. It matters little in the end whether he is Democrat or Republican—and he is or has been both—what really is the difference anyway? if he have constancy of principle? In an effect and barren age England's greatest Poet-Laureate, longed for "A Strong man in a blatant land, Like some of the simple great ones of old. Autocrat—Democrat, whatever you call him. What care I? One that can lend and will not lie."

In '36 a crisis confronted the convention at St. Louis. Out of the different opinions and different interests of that assembly some sort of declaration of the money question must be made. The East, backed by its interest and traditions demanded the Gold Standard. The West was equally clamorous for Silver at 16 to 1. It was a formidable issue, fraught with destiny to parties and to men. The time was ripe and the issue stared them boldly in the face. In this convention as a delegate from Minnesota sat Chas. A. Towne, at that time a member of the Lower House of Congress.

His maiden speech in that body had swept its members off their feet and had secured for him the enviable distinction of being the most talked of man in Washington. The incident had but few precedents. Cousins, Cochrane and Breckinridge and Lewis had done it, but the rule was and is, that the young Congressman finds opportunity to do little else than vote with his party. Towne was not of ordinary mould. He believed things—which is a great virtue and rare as it is great, and he could clothe his belief in eloquence to make it presentable to any audience.

He was young, handsome with a voice trained to the utmost of the electioneer's skill—the idol of his constituency—a man marked by destiny and by the times for great things. But he also had a rarer virtue, a conscience. Being of the West he believed, heart and soul, in silver, and the aforesaid convention declared in favor of the Gold Standard. Towne's conscience compelled him with forty other Western members to march out of the hall under the most dramatic circumstances that ever occurred in a political convention. His course seemed martyrdom; he yielded his leadership of the North-west to follow his belief. Some of us, then and now, thought his convictions on the money question were wrong, but all men approved his conduct. Here was no time server, here was no self-seeking politician; here was a man that would not lie. But mark the sequel; and here the hand of destiny that shapes the ends of men, rough-hew them as we may, again appears. Instead of the discredited leader without a following he finds primacy among the hosts who think as he thinks on the money question and we next find him a Free Silver Democrat in the United States Senate. His subsequent career in American history. He was Bryan's running mate in 1900. He is now a Representative of a New York District of Democratic complexion in the House that witnessed his first triumph.

Consistency? Yes he has been consistent, too. If you do not see it, stop a minute and ask yourself: What Western Republicans believed and what the Towne wing of Democracy believes and you will find the time of demarcation is wonderfully close to imaginary. Is Towne, the Democrat, so radically different from LaFollette, the Republican? These be perilous times indeed, when the Democratic patron saints are Jackson and Lincoln and the Republican ideals are Lincoln and Jackson. The days of individualism are again with us and parties mean less than men. How many of our present leaders are consistent partisans? Bryan, if the record is true, justifies "haling." LaFollette is not quite orthodox politically. Towne, the Democrat, is an ex-Republican. It is well—better, if they be consistent partisans. Among such men, Towne stands shoulder to shoulder with the best of them. Come to hear him and get a new birth of patriotism. Tickets now on sale.

WRONG SOW BY THE EAR, MR. SAUNDERS, INDEED.

Law Passed By Last Legislature Gives Farmers
Right to Pool Their Crops.

HON. BEN JOHNSON LARGELY RESPONSIBLE FOR ITS PASSAGE.

Editor Sun:—In last week's issue of The News-Leader is printed an article from Mr. J. N. Saunders in which the position is taken that the farmers, under the law, have no right to pool their crops. He quotes the old law which forbids any firm, individual, or association of persons to create, establish, arrange or enter into or become a member of, or a party to, or in any way interested in any pool, trust, combine, agreement, or understanding, etc., etc. Mr. Saunders, after giving the law in full upon this subject adds:

"If with such legislation upon our Statute book, some good honest farmer, who lives in daily dread of corporations, combines and trusts, should when he goes to collect for his crop, have the buyer demand section 3315 and get his tobacco for nothing—Would it not be a case of 'Chickens coming home to roost?'"

"And, when in the heat of passion, this honest, outraged farmer appealed to the Courts for protection, got $5,000 and 12 months on the rock pile, could his neighbors say the law had the 'Wrong sow by the ear'?"

It is very evident that Mr. Saunders is laboring under a mistake. In other words he has the "Wrong sow by the ear." The following law, enacted by the last Legislature, will be found on page 429 of The Acts:

Sec. 1. It is hereby declared lawful for any number of persons to combine, unite or pool, any or all of the crops of wheat, tobacco, corn, oats, hay, or any other farm products raised by them, for the purpose of classifying, grading, storing, holding, selling or disposing of same, either in parcels or as a whole, in order or for the purpose of obtaining a greater or higher price therefor than they might or could obtain or receive by selling said crops separately or individually.

Sec. 2. That contracts or agreements made or entered into by persons with each other, the object or intent of which is to unite, pool or combine all or any of the crops of tobacco, wheat, corn, oats, hay, or other farm products, raised by such persons, for the purpose of classifying, grading, storing, holding, selling or disposing of said crops, or any of them, either in parcels or as a whole, in order or for the purpose of obtaining a better or higher price therefor than could or might be obtained by selling said crops separately or individually, are hereby permitted, and shall not, because of any combination or purpose of said persons, be declared illegal or invalid.

Sec. 3. Such persons so entering into such agreement or contract as is set out in the foregoing sections, are hereby permitted to select an agent or agents through or by or with whom said parties so entering into such agreement may classify, grade, store, hold, sell, or dispose of said crops, or any of them, and said agent or agents may have the right to take, receive, hold, store, classify, grade, sell or dispose of said crops as placed in such agreement by or for the parties to the agreement between such principals, and contracts and agreements entered into by such agent or agents for the purpose of classifying, grading, storing, holding, selling or disposing of said crops so combined, united or pooled, either in parcels or as a whole, are hereby permitted, and shall not, because of any such combination or purpose of such original agreement of such principals so entering into said combination, or of such agent or agents, be declared illegal or invalid.

Sec. 4. Whereas, many persons of this Commonwealth now desire to combine their respective crops of tobacco, wheat, corn, oats, hay and other farm products, an emergency is now declared to exist which requires that this act should, and it shall, take effect from and after its passage and approval by the Governor.

It will be seen that the "good honest farmer, who lives in dread of corporations, combines and trusts," need have no fear of a $5,000 fine being assessed, or a twelve-month tribulation upon the rock pile, for the last Kentucky Legislature placed between him and these unrighteous things the "strong arm of the law." In other words, the last Legislature gave him the right to "fight the devil with fire." I am glad it was my opportunity, as a member of the Kentucky Legislature, to vote for the above law. And here, by way of parenthesis, let me say that Hon. Ben Johnson, of Bardonia, who was a State Senator during the last session of our Legislature, but who is now the Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, is largely responsible for the passage of this bill through the Senate.

W. D. CLAYBROOKE.

WARNING.

Mr. T. D. Wells has been appointed game warden for Washington county and will begin his work at once. All persons who violate the game laws are given warning that they will be prosecuted, and he will investigate all parties found going in the field with a gun. This will be easy for him to do because he has deputies in all parts of the county who will help him, and it is hoped by all sportsmen and law-abiding citizens that this law will be enforced. Any man or boy caught in the field with a gun between now and the 15th day of November will be arrested and brought before the court.

Death of Mrs. Clark.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Martha A. Clark, who died in St. Louis, Mo., the 20th day of October, 1906: Mrs. Clark was the widow of J. T. Clark and the daughter of the late David H. Spears of this place. She was born in Springfield, Ky., in 1828 and was reared in this place where she was well known to the older citizens. Mrs. Clark was a sister of the late Mrs. Marratta and of W. R. Spears, of this place, and of J. S. Spears, of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. M. L. Ball, of Ft. Madison, Iowa. Mrs. Clark was one of the most beautiful and popular women who ever lived in this county, and the friends of her youth and those who have known her in later years will be greatly grieved to learn of her death.

Vote First For Congressman.

By virtue of the rules laid down by the party authorities for holding the State primary, Democrats who wish to vote in the primary are required to first vote for a Congressman. Voters do not have to state how they voted, but as a requirement to participate in the primary, they must vote for a Congressman, and presumably for the Democratic nominee. This rule will obtain all over the State.

FATHER.

Of Dr. J. B. RoBards Passes Away at Hendersonville, N. C.

Dr. W. B. RoBards died suddenly at his home at Hendersonville, N. C., last Monday. He had been in ill health for quite a number of years, but his death was not expected, and came as a severe shock to his family and friends. Dr. J. B. RoBards and wife and Mr. Robert RoBards, upon receipt of the telegram announcing the death of their father, left at once for Hendersonville. They were joined at Lebanon by Dr. Richard RoBards, of Gravel Switch.

The deceased was born and reared in Boyle county where until a few years ago he practiced his profession. He was a man of many excellent traits of character, and numbered his friends by his acquaintances. The people of Boyle county where he was known and loved will remember him as an able physician, and a kind and noble man.

Besides Dr. RoBards, of this place, and Dr. Richard RoBards, of Gravel Switch, the deceased leaves a wife, one other son and three daughters. A son-in-law of Dr. RoBards died suddenly at Hendersonville about three weeks ago.

The deceased was a consistent Christian, being a member of the Methodist church. The interment occurred at Hendersonville.

Death of Rev. Edrington.

Rev. James L. Edrington was born near Campbellville, Taylor county, in 1836, and died on the farm on which he was born Oct. 27, 1906.

He joined the Louisville Conference M. E. Church South in the fall of 1859. For forty-seven years he has been going up and down the bounds of the Conference preaching the gospel of the son of God.

He was a man whom everybody respected and loved. Children, middle-aged and old tell that in Bro. Edrington they had a friend. Thousands were won to Christ under his ministry. He preached on the Springfield circuit for four years, and was later stationed at Lebanon. Some two years ago he was paralyzed, but recovered sufficiently to continue his ministry. During the recent session of this Conference he had a second attack. Since then he has been able to do but little preaching.

The end came to him peacefully, Saturday morning, October 27, surrounded by his family and friends. He leaves a wife and one grown daughter. His funeral was held Monday, the 29, in the Methodist church in Campbellville. There were eight preachers present and a great concourse of friends, all anxious to testify to their respect for the memory of this noble man of God. His body was laid to rest in the cemetery in Campbellville to sleep until the resurrection morning.

Servant of God, well done. The glorious warfare past, The battle's fought, the race is run, And thou art crowned at last.

RAILROAD TRAIN FALLS FROM A BRIDGE INTO WATER AT ATLANTIC

CARS STRIKE BOTTOM 30 FEET BELOW THE SURFACE.

WAS THROWN BY A SPREAD RAIL

All But Twenty-Three of the Hundred or More Passengers on Board Were Drowned.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 29.—The one railroad wreck of which even the thought has always brought a shudder to travelers—the plunging of coaches filled with passengers from a bridge to sink in the waters below, trapping and drowning every one who went down in the cars—occurred on the bridge over the Thoroughfare, the tidalwater stream separating Atlantic City from the mainland, on the newly electrified line of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The two forward coaches of the electric train dived from the trestle while traveling at a high rate of speed and immediately sank in about 20 feet of water. These two cars were virtually sealed like prison vans, and not a soul aboard had the slightest chance to escape.

Almost miraculously 25 or 30 persons escaped from the third car, as it hung for a moment balanced on an abutment of the bridge, and then it too dropped into the water, turned over on its side and sank in the water and mud.

The loss of life was frightful, greater than ever known in a railroad accident in this state. Places the most conservative estimate places the number of dead at 37, and the number will probably be increased when the cars are raised from the water.

The entire city was shocked by the news of the great calamity, and it was reported that the list of dead would reach as high as 120. Hundreds of persons who were expecting friends or relatives and did not know but they might have been passengers on the wrecked train, hurried to the scene, and at least 5,000 persons, held back by a large force of policemen, watched the work of recovering the bodies of the dead, pressing forward and breaking through the lines with every report that another body had been brought out of the sunken coaches.

It was not curiosity, but fear that held the great crowd at the scene. Dozens of small boats, hired by the anxious and half-frenzied friends and relatives of those believed to have been on the train, are hovering about the place where the accident occurred, their lanterns moving here and there as the divers come up from their work under the surface, always with the same report of the fearful loss.

A number of the bodies have been thus far have not been identified, and it is feared that it will be a difficult task to identify some of them.

The cars making up the train were similar in type to those used on the Subway in New York, vestibuled and with sliding doors at the side and immovable lower sashes or windows. All the upper sashes were closed, and the only ventilation was through the side ventilators, under the roof of the coaches. The doors were closed and locked by the lever that controls them, and the passengers were all prisoners on the train.

Making Up Lost Time. After leaving Pleasantville the motorman of the train, an experienced man, sought to make up some of the lost time and drove the train ahead at high speed, going between 50 and 60 miles an hour, which is considered safe speed on some of the stretches of the track.

The train slowed down as it approached the drawbridge over the Thoroughfare, into which a floodtide was sending the water churning, and seeing that the signals were all red, the motorman sent the train ahead, and it was running between 25 and 30 miles an hour when it came on to the trestle and approached the draw.

The draw had been opened but a few minutes before to let a car through, but the trestle had set the bridge again and displayed the signals that the track was clear. Just as the forward car struck the rail of the tracks on the trestle and the spread was a jar and jerk, and the car swayed over and bumped along the ties, dragging the other coaches behind it.

Every passenger in the two forward cars must have realized his danger when the cars went bumping over the cross-ties, and in a moment more the two cars jumped over the west side of the bridge and practically dived to the bottom of the Thoroughfare.

Among the passengers on the train were 30 members of the Royal Italian Artillery band, and nearly all of them lost their lives. The divers who were sent down to try and recover the bodies of the passengers in the sunken coaches reported seeing the brilliant uniforms of the bandmen among the men, women and children huddled together in the ends of the cars, where they had run to try and escape, and caught there and held until life was extinct.

The possible work of rescue was all accomplished within the short space of time that the third car hung suspended over the water before it rolled over and sank, but those who had escaped, every one of them bruised, injured or cut, did not cease to try and give aid to the unfortunate prisoners in the submerged cars until all hope that any of them were still alive was gone.

The accident was due to a rail "turning in."

It appears that the rail, which was an outside one on the right hand side coming down, must have been out of plumb about as much as an inch.

When the train left the electric train caught this and twisted it inward. Had it spread instead of twist inward, the accident never would have happened.

Proves Himself a Hero. The third trainman, Brakeman Wood, proved himself a hero. When the train left the rails and was bumping over the ties, Wood ran to the rear door of the last car and held it wide open and held it for the passengers to escape.

He held the door open until the car slid off the bridge, and he went into the water with it.

He then swam to the shore. His action in holding the door open probably saved many lives.

When the third car dropped into the water Henry Roemer, in the act of crawling from a window.

Reeling himself with an effort, and being a strong swimmer, Roemer set about to help others.

Swimming along the side of the fast-sinking car, he kicked out the glass and thus gave several passengers an opportunity to escape.

One man was caught in a window and was drowned before he could extricate himself.

The accident was witnessed by many people and rescue work was prompt.

KING OF THE KENO GAMBLERS. And a Picture-show Philanthropist, is Dead—Leaves Large Estate.

St. Louis, Oct. 29.—Capt. William Henry Godfrey, a picture-show philanthropist, who a quarter of a century ago was known as the king of the gambling fraternity, died at the home of Mrs. John H. Beecher.

When he was stricken blind on the street six weeks ago he recognized Mrs. Beecher by voice, though they had not met for 35 years. Saying: "No one else could have been here," he asked her to take him to her home.

He was a captain and owned a St. Louis-New Orleans line of steamships which he lost in the civil war, on which gamblers flourished.

After the war he established many keno gambling resorts in this city and "barrels of money" in a few years.

He leaves real estate in St. Louis worth $200,000, and his estate is valued at $500,000. He died intestate, leaving no relatives nearer than nephews and nieces.

BODILE CASES ENDED. It is Thought By Tragic Death of Millionaire Snyder.

St. Louis, Oct. 29.—The tragic death in Kansas City of Millionaire R. M. Snyder, in an automobile, under charges here of bribing members of a former city council to pass the Central traction bill, by which all the street car routes of the city except one were consolidated, removes from the jurisdiction of the court the only questions on which the state may reasonably hope to convict former Delinquent Frederick C. Uthoff and W. H. Ritter, indicted on charges growing out of the alleged bribery. Uthoff is said to have confessed before a grand jury that Snyder gave him a large sum of money for his vote.

Sailor Sleeping: Woman Dead. New York, Oct. 29.—Clinton C. Clark, 21, of Canabon, a sailor on the United States battleship Indiana, was strangled when he was found asleep on the grass in Riverside park identified woman. It is thought the woman was murdered.

Nearing the End. Worcester, Mass., Oct. 29.—The condition of Congressman Rockwood Hoare is very grave, and the doctor expressed that he would not survive many hours.

Receipts Show Increase. Washington, Oct. 29.—The annual report of the commissioner of the general land office made public shows that the total receipts for the year ending June 30 were $7,885,524, an increase over the preceding year of $2,712.

Hundreds Drowned. Tokyo, Oct. 29.—A hurricane off Goto Island 260 coral fishing vessels were caught, and only 38 of them lived through the storm. Eight hundred and twenty-two were drowned, and 100 injured out of 1,110 men on board.

"WHITE HALL"

And General Cassius Clay's Last Romance Recalled by This Suit.

Frankfort, Ky.—The court of appeals affirmed the Madison circuit court in the case of Mary B. Clay v. O. H. Clay. The case was brought by Louney Clay in a suit to settle her interest in the estate of the late Gen. Cassius M. Clay, involving White Hall, one of the finest farms of the Blue Grass. It was in this homestead that he passed the last years of his life frequently annoyed on account of his incompatibility with his child-wife whom he tried to educate by private tutor. Though surrounded by wealth and culture she deserted him for a poor farmer boy. Gen. Clay was a centric and kept a body guard about his house. He was a man of courage and at the time died officers to enter his estate.

SOMERSAULT. Saved the Driver of the Bally Train Killed by a Train.

Paducah, Ky.—By turning a backward somersault from his chair Henry Bailey, 25, of Poyorsburg, a few miles from this city, saved himself from a horrible death. He was on a trolley car and driving a large, well-spirited horse. As he was driving across the Illinois Central tracks the animals balked. The Cincinnati and New Orleans flyer was approaching, and unable to move the animals, Bailey turned a backward somersault out of his vehicle. The train killed the horses and demolished the carriage.

BROWN AND BROWN. Arrested, But Brown and Brown Escaped in the Brown-Brown Feud.

Paducah, Ky.—By turning a backward somersault from his chair Henry Bailey, 25, of Poyorsburg, a few miles from this city, saved himself from a horrible death. LIQUOR DEALERS HERE. Thought to Have Been Caught in the Failure at Lexington, Ky.

Lexington, Ky.—W. P. Strader, doing a general wholesale business here and rectifying business here under an assignment to Attorney E. L. Hutchinson. There has been no schedule of the assets or the liabilities filed, but it is believed a number of liquor dealers in Cincinnati and other places will be losers in the transaction.

THE COFFIN TRUST

As Discussed By Tom Watson In His Magazine

As the officers of the law advance against one trust after the other, smothering illegal combinations which exact outrageous prices from the public, let us pray that sooner or later the Coffin Trust will "get it in the neck." Among all the inhuman monsters who glut their rapacity upon human needs and human helplessness, there is none to compare with the Coffin Trust.

The Standard Oil Company is bad enough, heaven knows—but it robs the living! The Coffin Trust robs the dead. The Steel Trust plunders in shop and field, in city, town and village, but the Steel Trust fleeces those who are alive. The Coffin Trust fleeces the dead and chases its victims into the grave. The Beef Trust comes to us as we go about our daily affairs, unexpressed by any special burden of trouble and woe. But the Coffin Trust invades our home when the sob of heartbroken wife or husband or mother or child is heard as they wring their hands around the bier.

With a heartlessness that would degrade the fiercest beast of the field, this Coffin Trust penetrates every walk of life, and allows no man to bury his dead until he has knelt to a piratical combine and paid tribute to a pitiless master.

The Trust takes six poplar planks worth perhaps twenty-five cents apiece. These planks are thrown together, lined with satin on the inside, varnished on the outside, possibly a cheap piece of glass inserted in the top plank, a few pewter and gilt ornaments stuck along the sides, and there you are—a completed coffin, worth at the uttermost some $6 or $8 or $10 or $12. Here comes the afflicted husband or wife or son or daughter or brother or sister. A coffin must be had. Time is short; the necessity imperative. The coffin must be had. The Coffin Trust does business upon that fact. It unmercifully robs people by virtue of that fact.

What value is put upon this coffin? Forty dollars, fifty dollars, sixty dollars, eighty-five dollars. Every day we can see these plain, cheap, and somewhat gaudy, coffins, which cannot by any sort of calculation be shown to have a greater value than a dozen or so dollars, sell for five times that amount. Why? Because the purchaser is helpless, and because the seller has no pity in the heart.

The purchaser speaks for the dead, acts for the dead, is within the great shadow of domestic grief. The member of the family, whose sad duty it is to purchase the coffin, feels that it would be indecent, unseemly, distasteful, utterly repugnant to the occasion to haggle, and haggle, and cheapen and squabble about the price of what the dead man is compelled to have. No husband wants to hesitate over a mere question of dollars and cents when the beloved form of the wife needs burial. No wife will stop at any question of fifty here when her husband demands the last rites which her devotion can ever pay. The parent will not quarrel about the box which is to hold—all that is mortal of the darling child. Nor will son or daughter combat the Trust when necessity arises for the seemingly decorous, dutiful laying away of the father and mother.

Thus, while the other Trusts exploit the living, the Coffin Trust exploits the dead. Against other trusts we have some chance to fight; our neighbors, kinsmen, friends will cheer us on in such a fight. Against the Coffin Trust we have no chance.

So it is that the Coffin Trust has seized upon a coign of vantage which makes it irresistible. Heartbroken grief is the Coffin Trust's secret ally. The tears and sobs of orphanhood bring gold to its coffers. The unreasoning devotion of the half-crazed husband or wife becomes an ally of as remorseless a robber of human beings as the world has ever seen.

Ever since God fashioned the world and put the breath of life into man and woman, nothing has ever been known that was so inextinguishable, so heartless, so cruelly exacting as the Coffin Trust.

—TOM WATSON, in his Magazine for September.

Caution!

Persons when traveling should exercise care in the use of drinking water. As a safeguard it is urged that every traveler secure a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy before leaving home, to be carried in the hand luggage. This may prevent distressing sickness and annoying delay. For sale by every reliable dealer in the Blue Grass.

On The Gallows.

Lebanon Enterprise: Clarence Sturgeon, age 23, formerly of New Market, this county, was tried in the Louisville Criminal Court Wednesday upon the charge of shooting down and killing three men. The trial consumed the entire day and the jury after thirty-five minutes deliberation reached a verdict of murder in the first degree and fixed his punishment at death by hanging.

The killing for which Sturgeon was tried occurred in Louisville on June 14, 1906, and just at the beginning of Home Coming week. His victims were Ira Bruner, Wilford McMichael and James Blackerly, all of whom were almost instantly killed. The trouble was over Daisy Jackson who, since the tragedy, has committed suicide.

Marion County.

Falcon: Cards are out, announcing the marriage of Miss Rose Jaglowicz, of this city, to Mr. James Coughlin, of Canada. The ceremony will be performed at St. Mary's College chapel, Nov. 7, by Rev. Father Michael, a brother of the bride-elect.

Mrs. Scholastic Brady died at the home of her father, Wm. Johnson, on the 18th inst. Her funeral was at St. Vincent's church at New Hope on the 19th. She had been married about two years but had been suffering from that dread destroyer consumption for about 18 months.

Mrs. Lee Isaacs died at the Lakeland Asylum Sunday of consumption, where she had been an inmate for about two years.

Mr. E. Carl Litsay has purchased of Dr. L. D. Knott the vacant lot adjoining the latter's residence on Market street, on which he expects to erect a new residence in the near future.

His many friends here will be pleased to learn of the approaching marriage of Mr. Woodson May, who formerly resided in this city where he won the confidence and esteem of all who knew him. His engagement to Miss Lucy McKee, of London, has just been announced, the wedding to take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McKee, on November 15 at 10 o'clock a. m.

Devil's Sland Torture

Good Price.

Lebanon Enterprise: One of the largest real estate deals made in this city for many months was consummated Wednesday afternoon when the three-story brick store house on the corner of Main and Market streets was sold by Mr. J. G. Phillips to Mrs. Nanie E. Putnam. The consideration was $11,000. The building is at present occupied by the firm of N. H. Putnam.

Died of His Injuries.

Lebanon Enterprise: Mr. Daniel Noble, age 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noble, of Colorado, and grandson of the late Judge L. H. Noble, of Louisville, died last Friday night in New York. His death was due to injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred about six weeks ago. Deceased was an expert builder of automobiles and engines and at the time of his death he held an important position in a manufactory of automobiles. His remains arrived in this city Monday night and were taken to the home of Mr. D. H. Howard, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning by Rev. T. M. Correllson, after which they were interred at Ryder cemetery, beside the grave of his grandfather, Judge L. H. Noble. Deceased was a near relative to the families of Mr. D. H. Howard, Mr. L. Beeler and Mr. J. B. Brewer. The closing of so promising a career under such sad circumstances was a severe blow to his family and relatives who, in their bereavement, have the sympathy of many friends.

"High Time."

Lebanon Enterprise: An article which was sold Tuesday at the sale of the personality of the late Mrs. Caroline Thompson, on the premises, four miles from this city, was an old styled time piece, commonly known as a "Grandfather's Clock," which brought the handsome sum of $51.25. This venerable old time piece, the duplicates of which are very scarce, was 151 years old. On the day of the sale it was in good condition and "ticked" off the seconds its with long pendulum as it did in the days of "Auld Lang Sine." The contending bidders for this relic of pioneer times were Mrs. E. L. Davison, of Springfield, and Mr. C. A. Wilson, of this county. Mrs. Davison was the most persistent and won the prize. We saw recently an account of where one of these old "Grandfather Clocks" at a public auction in the east, brought the surprising sum of $500. There are very few of them left and these few command big prices when offered either at private or public sale.

NOTICE.

The matter printed on the 7th page of this issue headed "Winfrey Replies To Gullion," is political advertising matter, and is paid for by Mr. Winfrey.

Election next Tuesday.
Polls open at 6 a. m.
Polls close at 4 p. m.

It is required that you vote in the general election before you cast your vote in the Democratic primary.

Vote for Ben Johnson for Congress.

Election officers in the Democratic primary—don't forget to vote.

Don't let anything keep you away from the polls on next Tuesday, November 6. His services as Congressman will be of inestimable value to the district.

Two elections next Tuesday, November 6—regular election and Democratic primary—separate voting places.

Says the Harrodsburg Democrat:

"The Courier-Journal descants most learnedly upon the political contests and Democratic conditions in New York and Texas, but it doesn't seem to have learned that there is a cat-fight of that kind on in Kentucky. Why doesn't the old lady put on her night goggles?"

The Courier-Journal, it seems to us, has given from day to day accurate accounts of the progress of the campaign. But the Courier-Journal has wisely closed its columns to double-headed abuse from all sources and all sides. It has attempted to "unearth no stone to fling," and if it knows of a closet, wherein is a skeleton, it has not attempted to open the door, believing, no doubt, that the "guilty," who are now offering for office, have repented, and that the disclosure of these things would do no one good. The Courier-Journal has pursued the wise course. The campaign, now coming to a close, has been a great workshop, so to speak, in which a host of Democrats have manufactured dynamite, sharp-pointed missiles and roaring thunder for the brethren behind Republican ramparts to explode under us, to punch us with, and to roar at us from the very raging stump. True; Marse Henri

ARBITRATION.

Mr. Breckinridge spoke "unbecomingly" of the Paul Jones Brand, and trouble was brewed.

Mr. Desha Breckinridge, editor and owner of the Lexington Herald, and Mr. Lawrence Jones, a wholesale whisky dealer, of Louisville, recently engaged in an altercation in Seelbach's Hotel. Mr. Jones, it is alleged, without warning, and in the twinkling of eye, struck Mr. Breckinridge on the face. At this juncture friends interfered and separated the men. Fights like this one occur frequently in Springfield. It was a very tame affair; but it stirred up a big fuss and much hurrah. The newspapers went into details and told how it happened, and how it happened to happen. A few days ago a number of Mr. Jones' friends met in Louisville, and a number of Mr. Breckinridge's friends met in Lexington and decided that "something must be done." A "peace conference" was agreed upon; delegates were appointed and the conference met in Lexington last Saturday night. After burning much of that midnight oil, and "in the dead hour of night," (to use a Shakespearean phrase made famous by Senator Jo. Blackburn during the campaign of '96) "when graveyards yawn and hell itself breathes forth contagion to the world," a "peace-agreement" was drafted. Briefly the "peace-agreement" was: Mr. Breckinridge hadn't order said it to Mr. Jones, and Mr. Jones hadn't order hit Mr. Breckinridge. But between the lines one may read: "We hereby agree not to kill each other." The conference met to prevent a killing, not to get an expression of regret from the belligerents.

In Monday's Courier-Journal Mr. Watterson printed an editorial in which he commended the work of the "peace-conference." He, in a way, complimented Messrs. Breckinridge and Jones for agreeing each not to kill the other.

And the smoke of battle, on the "wings of the wind," rode away and the sun shines bright in our old Kentucky home.

We believe all controversies, whether between nations are men, should be settled by arbitration, and we are glad, indeed, that these two very prominent gentlemen decided that it is better to settle matters of this nature through "peace-conferences" than with 44s and Bowies, or by fist-bouts or other minor methods of "measuring conclusions."

But suppose Mr. Jones had not been Mr. Jones, the wholesale whisky dealer of Louisville, and the boasted relative of John Paul Jones, who swept the seas of English fleets, and suppose he had been one of our ordinary, every-day Joneses, busted-flat, an' afoot; and suppose Mr. Breckinridge hadn't been a Breckinridge—a son of the old man, just suppose he had been the possessor of the cognomen Smith and nothing else of value. Then suppose Mr. Jones and Mr. Smith had sauntered into Seelbach's and fought. Lawdy! what a difference!

No "peace-conference" would have been held, no Henry Watterson editorial printed, and upon being released from custody Jones and Smith would have been at liberty to shoot the daylight on of each other. But this brand of a Jones and this type of a Smith wouldn't do such a rash thing, notwithstanding that they are just as susceptible to insult and injury as the relative of John Paul Jones or "the son of the old man." And why? Not because they possess no "bump of hate," ah, no! not because they are free of that desire to pinch an enemy's liver till the heart is stilled, nor because they are any more determined to obey the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," but just because—having spent a few hours behind prison bars, having tasted the bitter thereof, having the smell of the prison upon their garments, and being not "in touch" with the coin of the realm with which to bandage the eyes of Justice, the aforesaid Jones and Smith, wisely conclude that the best way to choke tribulation and quarter the monsters "is to be-a-have."

Peace conferences are good things; so are jails.

Arbitrate!

Or go to jail!

And you'll be good.

In Forty Two States

New York, Oct. 28.—A week from Tuesday there will be elections in forty-two States and three Territories, Oregon, Maine and Vermont have already elected State officers and members of the sixtieth Congress. In twenty-three of the States a Governor and other State officers; in twenty of them also, a Legislature; in ten minor State officers or Justices of the Supreme Court; in two, Congressmen and a Legislature; and in seven Congressmen only are to be elected. Oklahoma is to vote on a State Constitution, and Arizona and New Mexico on joint Statehood.

Mr. McChord Interviewed.

Courier-Journal: C. C. McChord, chairman State Railroad Commission of Kentucky, who about six weeks ago was named as legal adviser of the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who are conducting the investigation of coal rates throughout the South, said yesterday that it had not yet been decided where the next investigation would be held.

He declined to state what the commission hopes to accomplish through its investigation, explaining that he was not in a position, because of his connection with the Interstate Commerce Commission, to discuss the matter.

The investigation now being conducted by the commission is the result of a resolution adopted by Congress, ordering that it be made. The commission has been instructed to probe into the alleged relationship existing between several railroad companies and owners of coal and oil lands throughout the South. The commission is to make the report, showing the result of its investigation, to Congress, and if anything is developed which is deemed worthy of immediate attention, a report is to be sent to President Roosevelt.

Prior to the investigation just made in Louisville, an investigation was made in Pittsburgh, said Mr. McChord yesterday afternoon. "The question of rebating on the part of the railroads was taken up and probed into by the commission in that city."

Inasmuch as the investigation just concluded in Louisville developed that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company owns many acres of coal land in Kentucky, Mr. McChord was asked if the company would be required to relinquish its holdings.

"That is a matter yet to be determined," he said. "The Hepburn bill, which is now effective, contains a section prohibiting railroads from owning coal or oil lands. It is my understanding, however, that this section of the bill is not to be enforced until after January 1, in order that the railroads may have until then to dispose of their holdings."

Claybrooke-Turner.

Miss Annie Claybrooke, of near Springfield, and Mr. J. P. Turner, of Lexington, were married at the home of Mr. D. U. Whayne in Louisville last Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Daws officiating. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Turner left for Lexington, where they will reside. On account of illness in the home of the groom's family the wedding was a quiet one. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Claybrooke and was one of the county's most admired and popular young women. The groom is prominent in business in Lexington. Mrs. Turner's many Washington county friends extend wishes for a life of unalloyed happiness.

Mrs. Mary Ragdale and Miss Ida and Mr. Joe Claybrooke, of this place, attended the marriage.

Rev. Sutherland's Letter.

Buffalo, Ky., Oct. 20.—Editor of The Sun.—Dear Sir and Friend:—We promised some of our friends when we left that we would write a letter to The Sun after we arrived at our new home, and we will try to keep our promise, but we have very little time to write to papers as we have five churches to minister to and over 500 members to visit, and one church house to repair. We appreciate so highly a weekly visit of The Sun that we will steal a little time off our work and write occasionally.

The people have received us on our circuit with old time Methodist welcome and, of course, that is enough. If there is anything in good "out look" we will have a pleasant and successful year.

Our parsonage is located in the beautiful little town of Buffalo, which is situated about six miles from Hodgenville and near the old Lincoln home. Buffalo is surrounded by a fine farming country and up-to-date farmers and this makes it quite a business place, with a good mill, a bank doing a good business, several large stores, all overflowing with trade, a splendid hotel, a fine Masonic hall, five preachers and an equal number of M. D.'s and a host of good people.

Buffalo College is located at this place and has enjoyed the confidence and esteem of a wide circle of friends. The influence of this school has spread out in every direction until its graduates and pupils are found in almost every community. The school building is noted for its beautiful and inviting surroundings and here the plan of education is broad and liberal and above all the rates are within the reach of every ambitious student. Prof. Crume, the president, has devoted his life to school work and his high standing ranks him as a leading educator. The other members of the faculty are progressive and up-to-date and with this union of forces, the school is destined to become an exponent of good in our State.

The new Methodist church here is the pride of every citizen. Situated at the southern part of the town and towering high above the adjoining buildings, it commands a view from the surrounding country and is the first to meet the traveler's eye.

Local option is properly in force in this county, and a drunken man is seldom seen and if some of our good Washington county people would come

The Turkey Crop.

The Lexington Leader says: "According to advices received by local poultry dealers, the crop of turkeys this year will be a very large one. Dealers are now receiving turkeys weighing from twelve to fifteen pounds apiece, as compared with turkeys weighing seven to ten pounds last year."

"Eastern speculators who played havoc with the market last year were taught a severe lesson, and they will keep their hands off this season. Last year these interests secured options on the bulk of the turkey crop in October for delivery during November and December. Realizing that they would not receive the exorbitant prices they had looked for, they failed to take up their options. As a result the farmers were left with a big supply of turkeys on hand, which they were compelled to sell at very low figures. This year the farmers are pledged to sell direct to the consumers, and take the open market price."

"Present prices of fourteen cents a pound on foot and twenty cents dressed will probably prevail during the Thanksgiving holidays."

"Other poultry will also be plentiful. Geese have already made their appearance, and heavy receipts are looked for later. Old hens and spring chickens are in liberal supply, and prices are reasonable."

Mr. Logan Walker, of near town, was quite painfully hurt yesterday afternoon. His horse became frightened at an engine, throwing him from the buggy, and quite painfully hurting his right side and hip. He is now doing very well, and it is not thought that his injuries are serious.

AT MACKVILLE.—Richard Horn bought of W. B. Hatchett 50 sheep at $6.50 per head. Mr. Hatchett sold to John Johnson 62 head of cattle at $4 per hundred. J. T. Lester bought of J. Harmon, of Boyle county, his farm containing 50 acres at $85 per acre.
Silas Johnson bought of Isaac McCros-ky his farm on the Cornishville road, one and a half miles from Harrodsburg, containing 84 acres at $75 per acre, or $7,050.

To the Ladies of Washington County.

Don't sell any more hens or roosters until the turkey season is over. They are very low now, and you will be able to pay you at least 2 cents more for them after the season is over. Bear this in mind and hold them for us.
M. H. JONES.

Nothing to Fear.

The question of injurious substances in medicines which has been agitating the minds of many people, does not concern those who use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mothers need have no hesitation in continuing to give it to their little ones, as it contains absolutely nothing injurious. This remedy is not only perfectly safe to give small children, but is a medicine of great worth and merit. It has a world wide reputation for its cures of croup, colds and croup and can always be relied on.
For sale by every reliable dealer in the Blue Grass.

SPINKS IS GIVEN DECISION.

Insurance Company Must Pay on Policy
Issued on His Father's Life.

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky court of appeals in affirming a judgment of the Campbell circuit court in the case of the United States Life Insurance Co. of New York against Harry Spinks, holds that under the law of New York "dividend additions" means that proportion of the surplus in the hands of the company accumulated from premiums and profits of the company. It is further declared that a defaulting policy holder's share of the "dividend additions" is to be ascertained as of the date of the failure to make any payments of premiums, on the basis of the American experience table of mortality with interest at 2 per cent per annum. In other words, the court holds that the defaulting policy holder shared in the same proportion that the policy had contributed to the creation of the surplus.

In the case at bar the deferred dividend additions carried a $25,000 policy over the death of the insured. The case will undoubtedly go to the United States supreme court.

GIVES UP RANK OF COLONEL.

Resigns as Member of Governor's Staff and Enlists in First Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky.—Giving up the rank of colonel to accept a commission as captain, Mott Ayres enlisted with the First Kentucky Infantry, and his commission will be made out at Frankfort, when Capt. Ayres, as he will then be known, will assume his duties as an active officer in the Kentucky state guard. He sent his resignation as a colonel on Gov. Beckham's staff to the governor several days ago. Along with the title of colonel he gave up the position of paymaster general in the state guard, a place which was regarded as one of the highest under the adjutant general. He was offered a commission to the First Kentucky with the rank of captain and preferred to be connected with an active regiment instead of having a title which was entirely honorary.

WILL BUILD MILLS

To Saw Timber on Large Tract in Kentucky Mountains.

Mt. Sterling, Ky.—The Bradley homestead, near Morehead, has been sold to the Clearfield Lumber Co. of Pennsylvania, which at once will begin the erection of two large saw and planing mills, with the finest modern machinery. These mills will be used to saw timber on the large tract of land now owned by the company on North Fork, and to which they are building a line of railroad. The mills will be completed early in the new year and will give employment to many men.

More Kentucky Diamonds.

Berkeley, Ky.—It is pronounced by expert mineralogists to be a genuine diamond mine has been discovered on the farm of William Canill, on the Fork, in this county. It is believed that the discovery is a richer one than the Elliott county field, recently discovered.

Must Wait a Year.

Frankfort, Ky.—The name of Judge M. L. Harbeson now goes on to the bar for circuit judge in Kenton county next month. The court of appeals declares he must wait till November, 1897, to be elected to office he is now holding by appointment.

Besiege Was Busy.

Louisville, Ky.—Fourteen victims have already appeared, and it is believed as many more can be secured, to testify against the Springfield man, Mattie Hines, a colored girl, arrested for theft.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Have Become Mere Grant, Declares
Rev. Dr. Hinit.

Louisville, Ky.—Scholarships have become a mere grant, declared Rev. Dr. P. W. Hinit, of Danville, in his report on Central university, at the session of the Kentucky Synod of the Presbyterian church, and he proceeded to substantiate his remarks by citing instances of letters that he had received from various persons, asking for a scholarship and saying that they had been offered this or that inducement by some other institution. "It is dishonorable," Dr. Hinit continued, "and no Presbyterian college should stand for it."

The election of trustees of Central university was as follows: Rev. Dr. P. W. Hinit, Rev. Dr. W. Francis Irwin, Rev. Dr. W. C. Condit and Hon. John W. Yerkes.

FORTY YEARS AGO

He Began Suit and Was Awaiting the Result When Death Came.

Louisville, Ky.—William T. Burch, a well-known local attorney, died of septic poisoning. Mr. Burch was a native of Meade county and was originally a railroad contractor. He was a sub-contractor under a Mr. Hooper on the Chesapeake & Ohio, now the Illinois Central. Hooper failed, owing Burch $5,000. The latter instituted suit, but never allowed it to come to judgment until recently, when he learned that Hooper, who had gone to Colorado and amassed a fortune, was amply able to meet his indebtedness. Deception was to have been handed down last Saturday, but was unexpectedly withheld. Mr. Burch expected judgment for the original sum, $5,000, with interest for 40 years.

Managing Editor James Kesley, of the Chicago Tribune, declined $500 reward for the arrest of Paul Stensland.

FARM LANDS and FARMS

Are Increasing in Value. If You Want to Buy Now is The Time

IF YOU WANT TO SELL YOUR FARM PUT IT IN MY HANDS.

I believe—indeed I am sure—I can save you money if you desire to buy a farm in this or adjoining counties. I have a great many farms for sale—good ones—at reasonable prices, and I am anxious to show you any one of them. Remember, that land is constantly increasing in value, and there is hardly a remote possibility that it will decrease. Indeed, the man who buys a farm today may feel absolutely certain that its value will increase a third—possibly half, or more, within a half a dozen years. I honestly believe that you can be suited in place and price, if you will call upon me. I have farms in every section of the county—large and small, and all of them are well improved. I also have some bargains in town property.

WINFREY REPLIES TO GULLION

SOME PLAIN TALK IN STATE
SUPERINTENDENT'S RACE.

Damaging Facts Submitted to Show
That Gullion is Double-Dealing.

To the Democrats of Kentucky:

My opponent, Mr. E. A. Gullion, is greatly disturbed over the fact that the voters all over the state are finding out that he is trying to sell into the State Superintendent's office under false colors, and that evidences of double-dealing are rapidly accumulating against him.

Many persons who know the relationship existing between Mr. Gullion and certain persons in the city of Lexington, who are known to be friendly to the normal school movement, were suspicious from the time of his announcement that there was a "nigger in the woodpile." This feeling now seems to be well-nigh universal. Recognizing the great popularity of the normal school movement in the state, and being conscious that the people generally are speculating on the fact that his candidacy has, from the first, been strongly endorsed by those who opposed the normal school bill, my opponent comes out in the may know that my opponent is attempting to deceive them in this matter, I submit below statements from members of the legislature who were in position to know who worked for the normal school bill, and who also know what Mr. Gullion's real business was in Frankfort during the last session of the legislature.

Senator Conn Linn Talks. I was chairman of the educational committee in the senate, during the session of 1906, and as such I was greatly interested in the state normal school bill, drawn by Prof. M. O. Winfrey and introduced by the late R. W. Miller. I well remember Prof. Winfrey as the champion of that bill both before and during the recent legislative session.

I do not recall that Mr. E. A. Gullion ever met with the senate committee on education or that he ever spoke to me on the subject of state normals. It was my understanding, in fact, I think he told me, that he was in Frankfort as the lobbyist for the newspaper libel bill, which was defeated. I never heard from him on any subject outside of newspaper legislation.

Very truly,
CONN LINN,
Chairman Senate Educational Committee.

Gullion a Lobbyist. I was a member of Educational Committee No. 1. In the house, and was secretary of the subcommittee which had charge of the redrafting of the normal school bill. I attended every meeting of the committee and of the subcommittee. We were in frequent conference with educators from all parts of the state, but I do not recall that Mr. E. A. Gullion attended a single meeting, nor did he by suggestion or otherwise render the committee any assistance. I was cognizant of every step leading up to the passage of the act, and I never knew of Mr. Gullion's taking any interest whatever in the welfare of the measure. I do know, however, that he spent a great deal of time before the legislature as the champion of the libel bill. It was only as a lobbyist for the newspapers that he ever approached me.

CHARLES I. DAWSON,
Ranking Member House Educational Committee.

Championed the Libel Bill. In reply to your inquiry, I state that I do not recall that Mr. E. A. Gullion ever appeared before the committee on appropriations at any of its meetings to urge favorable action on the state normal school appropriation, nor do I recall that he ever approached me on the subject.

I know he was in Frankfort a good part of the session, but it was my understanding that he was there as the representative of the Press Association, in the interest of the newspaper libel bill.

I do recall very distinctly that Dr. Hume, Prof. Cherry and Prof. Winfrey were present at those meetings.

I make this statement without any ill-feeling toward Mr. Gullion.
E. H. SHELMAN,
Chm. Appropriation Committee.

May Have Favored Wrong Measure.

In reply to your question as to Mr. E. A. Gullion's attitude on the state normal school matter, and as to whether he ever appeared before the house appropriation committee in their interest, I desire to say that I do not remember his appearance before that committee on any subject, though he may have done so. I attended nearly all the meetings of that committee, and remember distinctly the appearance of Hon. E. V. Miller and others in the interest of the normal bill, but do not recall any part that Mr. Gullion may have taken in the question.

I remember the appearance of Pres. James K. Patterson in the interest of the normal appropriation for the State college at Lexington, and it may be that Mr. Gullion was interested in that matter, thus confusing the two normal school bills.

Truly your friend,
LOUIS P. HEAD,
Member Appropriation Committee.

In view of the above statements, what becomes of my opponent's claim that he was in Frankfort 50 days last winter in the special interest of the state normal school bill?

It is evident that he is trying to deceive the public by claiming to have labored to promote this normal school legislation. Why did he try to conceal his real business before the legislature? "All the people can not be fooled all the time." Verily he has seen the "handwriting on the wall."

Four Candidates From Seventh District.

There are 11 congressional districts in the state and nine candidates to be nominated for state offices. The Seventh district has four candidates in the field. Mr. Gullion for State Superintendent being the last one to announce. Two of these four candidates have no opposition, viz: Hon. Henry M. Bosworth for auditor and Hon. South Trimble for lieutenant governor.

As a matter of fairness and justice to the other sections of the state, and in order to strengthen the ticket would it not be advisable to distribute the candidates over the state, rather than to nominate four out of nine from one section?

Supt. Fuqua's Indorsement.

My opponent has given wide publicity to a statement which he secured from State Superintendent Fuqua, after promising Mr. Fuqua a place on his state board of examiners.

In order to correct any false impressions that this letter may have caused I publish herewith a letter written by Mr. Fuqua a few days ago:

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 11, 1906. "I have known Mr. M. O. Winfrey a number of years, and have always found him very zealous and active in the cause of education, and a successful and skilful teacher. He has been a member of the State Board of Examiners since my entrance into office, and has discharged his duties faithfully and efficiently. He was very active and untiring in his efforts for the establishing of the two normal schools."

It is a pleasure to me to give these testimonials of regard for Mr. Winfrey.
Very truly,
"JAS. H. PUQUA, SR.,
Supt. of Public Instruction."

Gullion Attacks Jim Stone.

Mr. Gullion seems greatly worried over the fact that I have selected for chief clerk Hon. James E. Stone, former county superintendent of Breckinridge county for two terms and chief clerk of the house of representatives for the past 25 years. He seems greatly distressed over Mr. Stone's superior fitness for the place, and goes on to say that this is not a popularity contest between chief clerks. He seems to argue that efficiency in a chief clerk is unnecessary, for he says, "A machine can run a column of figures." I wonder if this was the idea which prompted him in selecting his chief clerk.

The thousands of friends of Hon. James E. Stone throughout the state will resent Mr. Gullion's weak attempt to reflect upon him.

From One Who Knows.

Prof. M. O. Winfrey worked incessantly for nearly two years to pave the way for state normal schools. During the two years prior to the meeting of the last legislature he did more to mold and develop public sentiment in favor of these institutions than any other man in Kentucky. During the session of the last legislature he spent much time in Frankfort, and was always alert and active for the state normal school bill, of which he was the author.

He should ever be remembered by the teachers and friends of education in Kentucky as one who has labored faithfully and sacrificed much for the success of this great cause.

DR. E. E. HUME,
Chairman Executive Committee, Educational Improvement Commission.

Middlesborough School Board.

Prof. M. O. Winfrey is one of the most thoroughly equipped and accomplished school superintendents we have ever had the pleasure of knowing. Besides being highly educated, and a strictly moral, upright Christian gentleman, he is one of the most active and zealous educators within our acquaintance. He has within four years revolutionized our schools. He has brought order out of chaos. He is peculiarly fitted for his work, being gifted with exceptional executive ability and the power of enlisting the community in the cause of education. As a result of his good work here we are straining ourselves financially to erect for him a $30,000 high school building.

While we would regret exceedingly to lose his services, yet we can not say much in praise of him as a wide-awake, up-to-date educator. We are proud of him.
Very truly,
R. L. BALESTON, President.
H. H. SPRAGUE, Secretary.
W. M. WALLBRECHT, Treasurer.
Board of Education, Middlesborough City Schools.

WHAT PROMINENT SCHOOL MEN SAY.

From Prof. T. J. Coates, Supt. Princeton City Schools.

Supt. M. O. Winfrey of Middlesborough, Ky., stands in the very front rank of school men in this state as a member of the State Board of Examiners, as President of the Kentucky Educational Association, as President of the Educational Improvement Commission of Kentucky, as superintendent of the city schools of Stanford and Middlesborough, as institute instructor and platform lecturer, he has proven his right to be ranked among the brightest, truest and brainiest young men of the south. He is in the prime of life, hardly forty yet, ambitious, energetic, a tireless worker, with superb health and splendid courage. The schools of the state, I sincerely believe, would be vastly benefited under his administration. I know no man who has done more than he to arouse and direct public opinion along educational lines. His life, his heart, his hopes are in his work. Above all he is a man of action; he brings things to pass. He has crowded more work into his eighteen years of school life than any other young man I know. He is a born leader.

For these reasons I believe the welfare of the school children of the state and the future advancement of Kentucky will be best served by the nomination and election of Professor Winfrey, and therefore I shall cordially support him.

From Prof. John Morris, For Ten Years Superintendent of Covington Schools.

Covington, Ky., Oct. 23, 1906.

As a school man I am watching the progress of the campaign for Superintendent of Public Instruction with more than ordinary interest, and I feel that the people should be alive to the educational demands of our commonwealth.

The best interests of public schools demand that a thorough school man should be elected to the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction in Kentucky. He should be a teacher by profession and a man of wide experience in actual school work. He should be a leader in his profession as well as a scholar. He should know the educational needs of the state, and should be ever ready to sacrifice personal ease for the good of the state. Such are some of the qualifications the superintendent of public instruction should have. If all the qualifications are possessed by a candidate the people should not hesitate to cast their votes for him on election day.

Fortunately for the educational interests of Kentucky, there is such a candidate in the person of Prof. M. O. Winfrey, superintendent of the Middlesborough city schools.

Very respectfully,
JOHN MORRIS

From Prof. W. F. Fete, Supt. Lebanon Graded Schools.

In my long association with Prof. Winfrey I have always known him as a man of fine moral character, as an earnest and zealous worker, as any cause that he considers right, as a man of strong convictions and with the courage to carry out those convictions. No man has ever worked more ardently for the upbuilding of our common schools, no one in our state is better equipped for the duties of the important office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, and in my humble opinion the best thing that can happen to the educational interests of our state is to elect him to the position he seeks and begin a new and more progressive era in Kentucky. papers of the state and in circular letters insists that there are no persons opposing normal schools. In his efforts to deceive the public, he goes on further and deliberately misrepresents his attitude in the fight for state normal schools, and indignantly recoils his real mission in Frankfort last winter. He has the audacity to claim that he spent 50 days of the 64 day session of the last legislature in Frankfort, in the special interest of the state normal school bill, and that he did everything in his power to secure its passage, adding that certainly no one was more active in promoting the measure than himself. He even makes a feeble attempt to prove this ridiculous and glaring misrepresentation by persons who were not in position to know whether he worked for the bill or not, except by taking his word for it, since none of them were on any committee which had this bill under discussion.
